THREE DEATHS IN ONE FAMILY.

Last Monday Elijah Barnett died at his home on Dry Fork, aged 82 years. The Saturday before his wife, 76 years old, was buried. A few days before, in the same week, his maiden sister, Sallie, who lived with him, died, aged 89 years. Mr. Barnett and wife died of pneumonia, and the sister may also have had the same disease. The deaths of these aged people occurring in the same home within a week's time, is a remarkable coincidence. We recall no similar occurrence. Mr. Barnett came to this county from West Virginia about a year ago. A few days ago he was in town, and called at this office, appearing in good health and reasonably active for a man of his age.—Climax Valley News.

Work Progressing.

A Bristol drummer who has just returned from a trip through eastern Kentucky and Southwest Virginia, reports that the International Harvester company has hundreds of men at work twelve miles from Appalachia, Va., in the construction of what will be one of the largest mining operations in that section. The operation is located just across the Virginia border in Kentucky, and is on what is known as "Big Looney." The plant will have a monthly capacity of 50,000 tons of coke alone, and this will be shipped to other parts of the country where the International Harvester company has furnaces. The company has acquired an immense area of land on "Big Looney," and will give employment to about six hundred men at the plant near Appalachia. A new line of railroad is to be built.—Bristol Herald-Courier.

The world respects positive men—those who take a stand for something. Of course, the worthier his convictions the more he is respected.—Ex.

The Farmer's Boy.

At a meeting of the President's of twenty of the nation's largest corporations held in New York, the other day, it was a matter of comment that of those present, twelve were "farmer's boys."

When the youngster at home on the farm gets "the blues" and fancies that there is no longer the chance that there used to be to rise above the monotony and drudgery of a tiller of the soil, he can think of those twelve captains of industry who started as he is starting, and remember that when they were boys there were times when they too imagined that it was a hopeless ambition to inspire to win their way to the front in the city.

He wants to remember that the farm has evolved some of the world's greatest men and some of its most conspicuously useful ones and that with the increasing activities of the nation in all directions there is now, more than ever, room at the top for the exceptional man.

In the contemplation of the stirring achievements of the farmer's boy, past and present, if he has imagination and soul he will find helpful inspiration, when the day seems dark and the future full of gloom. Let him recollect—as the world surely does—that it was the farm that gave us Abraham Lincoln, one of the world's most majestic figures; that gave us Andrew Jackson, Millard Fillmore, the martyred Garfield, Horace Greely, Sir Isaac Newton and the brilliant Carlyle.

It was a farmer's son—Eli Whitney—who created the cotton gin, which laid the foundation for the growth of the cotton industry, now worth $900,000,000 a year to the United States; and the farmer's boy—Elias Howe, who emancipated womanhood from the slavery of the needle by inventing the sewing machine.

Long before Robert Fulton sailed his steamboat, the Clermont, up the Hudson, John Fitch, the ingenious product of a Pennsylvania farm demonstrated that a boat could be propelled by steam by equipping a skiff with an engine and sailing his craft up the Delaware with its aid. Another brainy farmer's boy—Oliver Evans, sometimes called the Watt of America—was the first to build and operate a locomotive in the United States. Cyrus McCormick, inventor of the reaper, the whir of which is today heard round the earth, was the modest son of an ordinary Illinois farmer. The first machine to make tacks was the creation of a Massachusetts farm lad—Thomas Blanchard, and the device that furnished the world with the modern screw was the work of a poor Vermont genius—Thos. Harvey, a quiet, thoughtful farmer's son. To the resourcefulness of an Ohio farm boy—Charles F. Brush, who invented the dynamo, the world is indebted for its present great day industrial and power plants that give employment to millions of hands. Thomas A. Edison, most brilliant of the world's inventors, sponsor for the electric light, the phonograph, and hundreds of other devices, was the son of a poor farm laborer. Patrick B. Delany, inventor of the multiplex, the Delany relay, the telepost automatic telegraph and a hundred other telegraph and cable improvements, grew up on a New England farm. From a Wisconsin farm came C. L. Sholes, the inventor of the typewriter, which revolutionized the business methods of the world.

Where service is the only credential that commands recognition and a man's ability must square with his responsibility, the "farmer's boy" who has hearkened to the call of the big city will be found in the front rank of the world's useful workers in every large city on the face of the earth. For he makes good and the world needs him.

According to the Lebanon News, four prisoners were taken from the Russell county jail to serve terms in the penitentiary. They were Richard Ball, for the murder of Noah McFarlane; Lon Blair, for attempt of outrage at Honaker; Pelham Ratcliff, for the murder of Bill Aston at Dante; and Aaron Gibson, for shooting Rufus Sutherland at Dumps Creek.

The Republican Standpatters who are out gunning for the various county offices, must think the result hinges on Norton as Wade Hamilton, Jim Dorton, Dr. Holley, Bob Wolford, Hugh Slomp, Andy Witt and Bill Addington were all here last week.—Wise County News.

When the other day in St. Louis a carload of whiskey was blown up with a bomb, the people began to sit up and consider anarchy a serious matter.

COMMITTEE INSPECTS CATAWBA SANATORIUM.

Catawba Sanatorium, Va., June 7.—The Tuberculosis Committee of the State Board of Health concluded its annual inspection of the State Sanatorium today and returned to Richmond. The inspection was preliminary to the annual meeting of the Board which is to be held in Richmond in July. While no formal statement was given out by the Committee or by Health Commissioner Williams, who accompanied the party, it is understood here that the inspection was eminently satisfactory and that the committee was much pleased with conditions at the State Institution.

Buy a Player Piano

No need now for the remark "Oh, if I could only play." You may not be able to play a piano or any other musical instrument, but there is no reason why you cannot enjoy the highest class music in your own home. The Player Piano was designed for those who have no talent, for those who do not have time for tedious practice, and for those who would love to hear the great masters, but through lack of opportunity or location, cannot. No difference where you are or who you are, a Player Piano will bring the greatest music in the world into your own home. In Player Pianos we carry such high grade instruments as—
